REPORT OF BOARD OF HEALTH.

During the past year we have attended to such complaints as have been made to us and required our attention, and have disposed of the same in such a manner as seemed proper and right. There has been reported one case of measles, and the premises placarded, according to the state law. On the 29th of January a case of scarlet fever was reported in the family of A. W. Seaver. The house was at once quarantined, a trained nurse procured and all possible precautions used to stay the spread of the disease. This case was quickly followed by three more members of the family being stricken.

Three deaths have resulted from these cases. The fourth patient is convalescent at the time of this report.

The expense to which the board has been in maintaining quarantine, employing a nurse and other necessary expenditures, have not been presented for settlement, with the exception of those herewith submitted:

REPORT OF THE Committee for Repairs on Chesham Schoolhouse.

The above named committee herewith submits its report for expenditures on the Chesham schoolhouse.

G. G. Mason, work with team on foundation,	$58 00
Wesley Huntley, work with team on foundation,	23 20
S. D. Bemis, sand,	6 00
Two laborers, 12 days digging,	42 00
Bill of Geo. E. Forbes for moving building,	84 10
Bill of M. O. Spaulding for labor, material, etc.,	834 33
Bill of Spencer Hardware Co., hardware, etc.,	53 58
Bill of P. W. Russell, lumber, etc.,	156 94
Bill of Fred Travis for painting,	23 85
Total,	$1,282 00

Some consideration was given to the question as to whether it was advisable to have this entire job done by contract for a stipulated sum, or for the committee to purchase the material and hire labor by the day. The latter course was decided upon owing to the fact that, on a repair job of this kind, contractors usually figure on quite a large margin, in order to insure a safe profit. For this reason, the appropriation was exceeded slightly, but we feel that the town has derived full value for the money expended.

Mr. Fred C. Farwell, one of the members of the committee, having resigned and left town, the labors of the committee devolved on the remaining two members.

Respectfully submitted,

P. W. RUSSELL,

G. G. MASON,

Committee.

SCHOOL REPORT.

In making our report to the town the present year, we are handicapped by the fact that our schools are still in session and have several weeks to keep, with the exception of the one at East Harrisville. The terms have been broken into by the resignation of teachers, sickness, and the making of repairs.

The first term of the grammar school was commenced by Miss Southard of Bath, but before the end of the term, on the account of sickness in her family, she resigned, and Miss Pauline Dawson of Ipswich, Mass., was employed to take her place, which she continued to hold to the satisfaction of all concerned. During our visits to this school it has always appeared quiet and orderly, and some of the oldest scholars, will, we believe, at no distant day be qualified to enter a high school where there will be better facilities for farther advancement. The school has about thirty scholars.

The primary department with about fifty pupils has been under the instruction of Miss Bertha M. Seaver, who for the past five or six years has taught this school, and whose place as a director of the young minds of children it would be hard, if not impossible to fill. Owing to the shutting down of the mills for several months this school has not been as large as usual.

The first term of the Chesham school was taught by Miss Mabel E. Bigelow of Keene, a teacher of experience and high reputation, but who sadly disappointed us by resigning at the close of the first term, although we made liberal offers to retain her. It is seldom we get a teacher giving such universal satisfaction.

To take her place, Miss Hester G. Rowe of Gloucester, Mass., was employed. Miss Rowe was thoroughly qualified and trained for her work and maintained strict discipline with but little friction. Owing to the time required to move and repair the schoolhouse, the school closed at the end of the eighth week. The long time taken to render the house fit for occupancy, Miss Rowe was unable, owing to other engagements, to finish the terms for which she had been employed, and Miss Honora Flaherty, a veteran teacher, was engaged to take this school for the winter term and commenced her labors on December 30th and is now teaching her sixth week. The whole number of pupils enrolled here during the year is 34, with an average attendance of about 26. In consequence of sickness and deaths by scarlet fever in the family of Alfred W. Seaver, and the usual fear of infection, has retarded the progress here, but now gives promise of good results.

The East Harrisville school was taught the first and third terms by Mrs. Anita Wright Herrick, and the second term by Miss Alberta Veazy of Hancock. This is a very small school and easily governed, but too small to have that spirit of emulation necessary to rapid advancement. Because of the smallness of this school we thought it best to give them less number of weeks' schooling than the larger ones, which we think will not be regarded as any injustice. There are but seven scholars.

With the understanding that our superintendent, Prof. Austin H. Fitts, will tell the town what he thinks of our schools, their present standing and future needs, we respectfully submit this report.

REPORT OF SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS.

To the School Board of Harrisville :

Gentlemen.—I herewith submit my report as superintendent of schools.

The three conditions of good schools are good teaching, good attendance and good equipment. It is the duty of a superintendent of schools to see that these three conditions are secured. Of these three conditions good teaching is by far the most important. Consequently a superintendent must use great care in hiring teachers. This important work I have endeavored to do most thoroughly; and I would recommend that in the future no teachers be hired without first giving the superintendent opportunity to present such candidates as he sees fit, and to investigate the records of all candidates who apply.

As a whole, the teachers of Harrisville have been doing remarkably efficient work. Seldom have I seen such eagerness among the primary pupils as is maintained under Miss Seaver. At the outset Miss Dawson was handicapped because of inexperience, but she has steadily developed until she has become a really strong teacher. I cannot commend too highly the unselfish devotion to duty that has led these two teachers to offer to the district their services free of charge for two weeks. I would suggest that the district vote to recompense these two teachers for the services thus offered. The district can well afford to pay such teachers for services rendered under such circumstances.

The school at Chesham has been under the direction of two excellent teachers. Under Miss Rowe the discipline was strong, the instruction thorough. Miss Flaherty has done some of the best teaching I have ever seen.

At East Harrisville, unfortunately, the teachers have not been so efficient. Miss Veazey was a live teacher but lacked in education and experience. The children at East Harrisville show that at some time in the past they have received unusually good training in reading.

The attitude of the people of Harrisville in sanctioning the selection of teachers regardless of race or creed is greatly to be commended. Fitness alone should be the determining principle in deciding the qualifications of a teacher. The town of Harrisville is also to be congratulated on the fact that it pays better salaries to teachers than do most of the towns in Cheshire county. A cheap teacher is poor economy.

I have sought to secure better attendance conditions and a decided improvement in regularity of attendance has resulted. Parents ought to be willing to see to it that their children are in school unless absent because of illness or for some other equally good reason. When absence is unlawful, immediate attendance should be secured. In such cases the teacher ought not to be obliged to wait two or three days for the truant officer to arrive from another part of the town. I would therefore recommend the appointment of a truant officer for each part of the town, such truant officers to be under the directing authority of the superintendent.

Before I dismiss this subject of school attendance, I wish to caution parents against making the mistake of sending their children to school at too young an age. The best educational authority is to the effect that children should not commence going to school until seven or eight years old. Good lungs, good blood, and good muscles are more essential to the welfare of any human being than mere book learning. Some of the greatest men this nation has produced were men who had little or no opportunity to go to school in early childhood. Perhaps this apparent disadvantage was really a blessing. Who can say? In any event, it is well that children should not begin going to school until they are first sturdy, ruddy, vigorous little animals. Under such circumstances there will be much less likelihood of their graduating from school, mere bundles of nerves, physically unfitted for any real exertion in life.

In regard to the matter of equipment, I am sorry to say that I cannot speak in terms that are wholly commendatory. The remodeled two-room building at Chesham is splendid, the finest schoolhouse of its type in the six towns under my charge. A feature of this building, especially to be commended, is the wood furnace in the cellar. This furnace throws an abundance of warmed, not burned, air into the rooms. The temperature is even throughout the room, the child is not "freezing on one side and roasting on the other," and he is able to study without having his attention distracted because of physical discomfort.

Still, this building is not completed. Some sort of ventilating system should be installed even though it is no more elaborate than the building in of a board at the case of each window. The walls ought to be tinted a light green and the windows provided with suitable shades. Under present conditions, with the staring white walls and unshaded windows the light is exceedingly trying to the eyes of those who are studying within. When spring comes the grounds will need to be graded and grassed over and suitable walks provided. These walks should be constructed of crushed stone or some other suitable material so that as little dirt as possible will be tracked into the schoolrooms. I would suggest that when Arbor Day arrives it would be a good plan for the scholars to plant trees and shrubbery about the building in such a manner as to make the surroundings as artistic as possible. This work should be done under the direction of some person competent in such matters.

Little can be said in favor of the building at Harrisville and its surroundings. First of all, the woodsman's axe should lay low the trees close by the building. As the trees are now, the lower room is altogether too dark, so that it is not sufficiently well lighted for study. The building needs painting. The blinds are in bad shape. They should be removed from the building and the amount of light within should be regulated by the raising and lowering of curtains on the inside.

The present situation of the furnace is such that it is inadequate for the heating of the building. On the morning of January 20 I arrived at the school at half past seven. At that time the janitor had a very good fire in the furnace, but it took till ten o'clock to get the two rooms sufficiently warm to begin school. An excavation should be made beneath the building, and the furnace changed to its proper place below and not beside the lower room. This work should be done this coming summer and then if, another winter, the furnace is still found to be inadequate, an additional furnace should be installed. When the furnace is removed, careful attention should be paid to the joints to see that they are made tight. Under present conditions enough gas is discharged into the upper room to make the air there very bad indeed.

The air would be still worse were it not for the fact that the windows are so loose that considerable fresh air gets in. This ingress of fresh air should be regulated, however, so that the pupils will not have to sit in draughts. In other words, some system of ventilation similar to that recommended at Chesham, should be installed. Either storm windows should be put on or the windows provided with weather strips. I venture the assertion that the saving of coal in one winter would more than offset the expense of these changes.

I am sorry to say that the interior of the building is in need of some repairs because of the roughness of pupils. The discipline of the hallways is poor. At recesses pandemonium breaks loose. I speak of these things thus publicly, because I believe that upon the parents rests a burden of helping superintendent and teachers to improve the general morals of the pupils about the building. At recess, at noon and at night, pupils should file from the building under the direction of the teachers, and should not break ranks until out on the school grounds. Teachers should be in their room fifteen minutes before the opening of each session. All running and boisterous play should cease as soon as the pupil enters the building. Pupils in a schoolroom should observe the same degree of decorum as is expected in any well ordered home.

A few words in regard to outhouses are important. These should be kept in a sanitary condition. They should be cleansed of usual filth, and the interiors painted a leaden color so as to allow as little opportunity as possible for obscene markings.

The schools are in urgent need of more text books. This past year new geographies, histories, readers and physiologies have been put into the grammar school at Harrisville. The primary school at Harrisville has received new arithmetics. New books have also been added at Chesham and East Harrisville. In each instance when new books have been bought it has been the endeavor of the superintendent to secure the best obtainable.

All the books in the schools should be properly marked with a stamp, indicating that the books are the property of the town; they should also be numbered and charged to the pupils. In this way a record could be kept that would go far toward preventing the practice that has prevailed in the grammar school at Harrisville of tearing leaves out of school books, so as to get permission of the teacher to study with another pupil whose book has the page of the lesson intact. Out of fourteen geographies recently examined by the superintendent, seven had been so mutilated.

In the New Hampshire School Report for 1906, Harrisville is put down as paying $116.84 for supplies. I believe that this figure is altogether too high. The following table is interesting and instructive. It is compiled from the New Hampshire School Report for 1906.

Town.	Av. membership.	Expended for supplies.
Fitzwilliam,	168	$55.00
Troy,	221	94.00
Harrisville,	113	116.84

I believe that if the matter of purchasing supplies were left to the superintendent he could save the town a considerable part of his salary. Last spring I obtained quotations from four different houses for exactly the same work. These quotations ranged from $4.75 to $9.00. This fall and winter I have been able to secure prices ranging from twenty to one hundred per cent below prices asked by competitors.

I would recommend that a specific sum, say one hundred and fifty dollars, be voted for school books and supplies, instead of voting one lump sum for schools and purchasing text books and supplies out of this amount. I would also recommend that a specific sum be voted each year for general repairs.

The statutes of New Hampshire provide that "The school board of every district shall provide schools at such places * * as * * will give to all scholars of the district as nearly equal advantages as may be practicable. * * * They may use a portion of the school money, not exceeding twenty-five per cent, for the purpose of conveying scholars to and from schools."

The school at East Harrisville is costing the town over a dollar a week per pupil. The highest cost per week in any other school in town is less than fifty cents per pupil. The teacher at East Harrisville receives eight dollars a week, the other teachers, ten. In other words, it is costing the town more money per pupil for the school at East Harrisville, than for any other school in town, and the children there are receiving a poorer quality of instruction. I submit that the logical solution of this problem is to close the school at East Harrisville and to transport the pupils to the school at Harrisville. I have investigated the matter of obtaining transportation, and I have come to the conclusion that transportation can be secured at a reasonable sum. The results would be a considerable saving of money to the district each year, and better instruction for the children of East Harrisville.

In closing, I wish to thank the members of the school board for their cordial cooperation in my work; a cooperation without which I would have been unable to accomplish much I have undertaken; and to express to the parents and the community my best wishes for the prosperity of their schools.

Respectfully submitted,

AUSTIN H. FITTZ.
